Gardeners tour a promising rose garden

Elk Point Further Education's Garden Club members toured a number of local beauty spots on Wednesday, July 20. At this stop in the Ferguson Flats area, Olga Ockerman (second from left) showed off a collection of Explorer roses to fellow green thumbs Irene Lindquist, Susan MacKinnon and Carmen Tung. The tour also visited gardens created by Leigh Babcock, Debbie and Kevin Lawrence, Sylvia Boothman, Susan MacKinnon and Ruth Vogel.

'Open concept' for new Allied Arts Society

By VICKI BROOKER

Review Staff

"We're looking to house not only fine arts, but other arts from martial arts to quilting," says Don Conrad, president of the recently formed Elk Point and District Allied Arts Society. "It's a more open concept than if we focused on fine arts."

As an association, "we're doing really well," Conrad says. "We have our executive and seven directors in place, we have our bylaws done and we've applied for incorporation."

The group, with Millie Orr as its vice-president, Deanna Easthope as secretary and Thomas Kondla as treasurer, plans to develop the warehouse space on the east side of Northern Lights Library System headquarters into a facility which will serve all the various art forms.

To ensure the facility will accommodate the needs of the user groups, "we have done a needs assessment and taken their requests. Formalized plans for development are being drawn up now, and these will be presented for a feasibility study to see if we comply with all the standards and codes."

The society plans to develop the building "in phases," Conrad says. "The first phase will be the basic necessities, washrooms, dressing rooms and a stage." Public washrooms are "the key element. We can't do anything without them. We know they'll be costly, but they have to be done."

Once the washrooms are in place, the building would be usable for events, Conrad said. "We've had to rent a portable stage before, and we could do it again." Those events would be a welcome source of funds for further development.

Financially, the society is only at the point of selling $5 memberships, "and we've had a few donations toward seed money," Conrad says. "But we do have our first fundraiser underway."

That fundraiser is under the auspices of the Elk Point Community Choir, one of the user groups. Millie Orr, who sings and acts with the choir, says "we're selling tickets on a one-minute Co-op shopping spree, so we're promoting shopping local at the same time.. The winner is guaranteed $400 worth of groceries, but if they'd rather chase around and get more than that, they can do that, too." The draw will be made on Elk Point Fair weekend, Orr says.

"If this is successful, we'll do it again before Christmas. We kind of want this as a regular fundraiser." The society is also planning to hold an auction of donated items in the spring, and are asking local residents to donate "basement goodies," Orr says. "We plan to hold it early, probably before garage sale time."

Métis Centennial wagon trek will merge past and present

By VICKI BROOKER

Review Staff

The Métis Nation of Alberta is celebrating the 100th birthdays of Alberta and Saskatchewan with their Centennial Journey 2005 wagon trek, which spokesperson Marilyn Undershultz says is "merging the past with the present."

The trek began July 24 in Batoche, SK, with 30 wagons, 200 horses and 150 people of Métis descent from the Manitoba Métis Federation and Saskatchewan Métis Wagon Adventures setting out on a journey along the Carlton Trail which will retrace close to 1,000 km of historic trading route leading to Métis Crossing, south of Smoky Lake.

The trek will cross the border at Onion Lake on Sunday, August 14, with a special celebration to mark the occasion. At that point, an Alberta Métis Nation contingent comprised of 40 people, 50 horses and 10 wagons will meet them to join the trek.

From there, the long line of wagons and riders will continue westward with an overnight stop at Lea Park on August 15 before heading north and west Heinsburg on August 15.

From there, the wagons will follow the Iron Horse Trail, a historic route well traveled from fur trade times until well after Alberta became a province in 1905, and later the route used by the CN Railroad until the end of the 1990s.

The trek will make overnight stops at Lindbergh on August 17, Elk Point on August 18, St. Paul on August 19, Ashmont on August 20, Vilna on August 21 and Bellis Lake on August 22, arriving in Smoky Lake on August 23 for a two-day visit before making the final leg of the journey to Métis Crossing on August 25.

By that time, the MNA estimates that over 50 wagons, numerous outriders and Red River carts, as well as a cart drawn by oxen will be part of the trek.

At each stop along the route, evenings of storytelling, singing, dancing and Métis history will celebrate and share the culture, language and traditions as well as showcasing the significant contributions made by Métis people to Alberta.

"Members from the surrounding communities en route are encouraged to join in these celebrations and experience the proud history and spirit of the Métis," Undershultz says.

Individuals wishing to join the trek for a day are encouraged to do so to promote an appreciation of the Métis people, customs and culture. A sponsored community wagon will be available to youth groups, elders and other community groups unable to otherwise experience this type of adventure for a day. More information may be obtained by calling the MNA at 1-800-252-7553.

Métis Crossing, 10 km south of Smoky Lake near Victoria Settlement, was a connecting point for First Nations people for centuries before Europeans came to the Canadian west, as indicated by archaeological digs which unearthed the remains of a 6,000 year old campsite.

In 1862, Methodist minister George McDougall established a mission at what is now Victoria Settlement Historic Site, with the Hudson's Bay Company building their Fort Victoria trading post nearby. A number of Manitoba Métis families settled in the area, which was divided into the traditional long, slim lots, stretching back from six miles of river frontage.

The 512-acre Métis Crossing site is a major initiative of the Métis Nation of Alberta. Now being developed, the completed site will include a cultural centre, training and retreat centre, accommodation, historic village, amphitheatre, walking trails and more.

The Centennial celebrations at the site on August 26 will include a talent show and open stage, hands-on demonstrations and cultural activities, as well as a warm welcome for the wagon trek participants and visitors arriving from Edmonton by canoe after following another historic route, the North Saskatchewan River.

Gardeners seek out local colour

A glorious bed of multicolored lilies in full bloom highlights the tranquil landscape at Sylvia Boothman's home near Lindbergh.

The MD of Bonnyville, County of St. Paul and Lakeland County invite all producers and others involved in agri-business to attend:

Surviving the Hard Times IV Recover-Rethink-Rebuild

What you need to know about West Nile virus

"I went from training for a marathon to having a three and a half month headache to being off work for almost a year."

– Graham, West Nile fever survivor

- During 2003, 275 Albertans developed West Nile fever or the more serious West Nile neurological syndrome. Most were older adults.
- Your best protection is insect repellent with DEET. Used as directed, DEET has an excellent safety record.
- Products with lemon eucalyptus oil are effective for shorter periods of time.
- Wear long-sleeved shirts and pants at dusk and dawn when mosquitoes are most active.

Beauty spots abound in rural area

By Vicki Brooker
Review Staff

Elk Point Further Education's Garden Club members spent a recent afternoon and evening admiring some of the foremost beauty spots in the area east of Elk Point. This was the second tour for the group this year, their first taking them west and south.

The first stop on the tour was at the Babcock home north-east of Elk Point, where wife Debbie says, "Leigh is the gardener." He has created a terraced patio is edged with colorful beds of annuals, a shale path leading through an arbour to a bed filled with delphiniums, peonies, bellflower, snapdragons and columbine. Another path, its entrance flanked with trellised sweet peas, leads to a firepit gathering area, while fruit and specimen trees share the spacious lawn with a raised bed of peonies, windflowers, lilies and bleeding heart. Lilacs punctuate a long bed of riotously blooming wildflowers.

From there, the tour moved east to Ferguson Flats, where Olga Ockerman and her daughter Sandra have created a paradise where annuals supplement wide beds of perennials against a background of interesting trees, including Russian Olive, Sea Buckthorn and oak. A recently completed shade garden features a tinkling fountain in a setting of bergenia, ferns, columbine and hosta, surrounded with shredded bark and log-slice paths. A wide border along the entire south side of the house contains "a little bit of everything," Olga says, while nearby, a dry rock stream with arching bridge leads to a garden of Explorer roses.

From there, the tour moved to the Lindbergh area home of Debbie and Kevin Lawrence, where the ladies were every bit as impressed as the visitors on the Silkworm Garden Tour three days earlier. After pointing out the details of her extensive displays, Debbie joined the tour group as they moved on to their next stop at the home of Sylvia Boothman.

Summer's cup is still half full - enjoy!

The August long weekend is now behind us - not unlike the half-time show at a football game. Some of us may be dismayed to see the summer fleeing so fast, but keep in mind that you still have half a summer to enjoy.

Four weeks and one day are at your disposal before the youngsters must return to school and life gets back to its normal round of meetings and activities. Twenty-nine days give you at least 29 opportunities to savour the rest of the sunny season.

Let us count the ways... (1& 2) Have you been out to the Forts yet this summer? Fort George and Buckingham House Interpretive Centre is hosting their Saskatoon Day this Saturday and their Forts des Prairies Jamboree on August 28, as well as being a great place to visit any other day in August. (3 - 7) There are five lakes to visit within a half-hour drive, and many more a little further away, many of them with uncrowded golden beaches and excellent playgrounds, even if you don't go fishing. (8-10) Speaking of playgrounds, Elk Point has top notch playgrounds in Markstad Park, at Elk Point Elementary School and at the Elk Point Recreation Park. (11-12) Gazebos at the Iron Horse Trail Staging Area and the Recreation Park are just waiting for you to enjoy a picnic lunch in their shade. (13-16) Take a hike at Whitney Lakes Provincial Park, Elk Point Recreation Park or down the Trail, or just walk around town and enjoy all the beautiful gardens.

As for ideas 17 to 29, you'll need to check back with us next week.

WAY BACK WHEN...

Construction: new, ancient and beaver

HERE'S THE NEWS THAT MADE THE HEADLINES IN THE ELK POINT REVIEW AND LAKELAND REVIEW FOR THE WEEK OF AUGUST 2 IN...

1985

Farmers were searching the sky for clouds that might provide the rain that was badly needed for area crops which were starting to burn. Houses in all stages of construction were going up rapidly in the west subdivision, with Borger Construction also busy preparing more lots for further construction.

1990

Amoco Canada Petroleum, whose holdings included 242 sections of land in the Elk Point area, announced plans for electrifying 270 wellsites, decreasing well spacing to a minimum of eight acres per well, drilling 10 to 15 new wells per year and enhancing recovery on other wells with cyclic steaming. One of Amoco's cleaning plants was a stop on the County of St. Paul Agricultural Service Board tour, which also visited the Canadian Salt plant, Rob Holliday's solar greenhouse and the County's new gravel crusher.

1995

The Lakeland Regional Health Authority was concentrating on assessment of health needs in the communities within the jurisdiction. The addition of an automated external defibrillator to the mobile equipment gave Elk Point and District Ambulance staff a new way to assist victims of heart attacks.

2000

Fort George and Buckingham House Interpretive Centre's day camp group explored beaver habitat at Elk Point Recreation Park, a first-hand adventure with a fur trade theme. Rancher Clifford Swedgan made a surprising find near Stoney Lake, when he unearthed a large quantity of well-preserved wood and a layer of soil studded with tiny shells while excavating for a dugout.

GUEST COLUMN

I am Canadian, and proud of it

This last weekend was the big cultural celebration in Edmonton. Did any of you have a chance to go? When you think about it, it was the weekend to listen to music and watch dancers from various cultures perform. Of course, there was also a sampling of food from the different ethnic backgrounds. Actually, it was very nice to see everyone together.

When one comes away from it all, we realize that our home is where we live. Our backgrounds and ethnic culture is what we bring to the fabric of being Albertan and being Canadians. There is a story behind the words: "I am Canadian."

"I am Canadian" was a series of Canadian television commercials aired in the early part of this decade (first airing in April 2000), advertising the Canadian brand of Molson beer in Canada, the commercials also aired in the United States. The premise, using patriotism as a platform, was a man named Joe, an average Canadian, standing in a theatre, with a cinema screen behind him showing different images relating to Canadian culture. Joe proceeded to give a speech about what it is to be Canadian, and what Canadians are not, as some aspects get confused with US culture. The advertising was a huge success for Molson, stirring the often reserved patriotism of the Canadian public. It was performed by

deanna
EASTHOPE
from the FCSS desk

actor Jeff Douglas. The commercial won an advertising industry Gold Quill award in 2001. Joe's speech goes like this:

"Hey,

I'm not a lumberjack or a fur trader, and I don't live in an igloo or eat blubber, or own a dog sled, and I don't know Jimmy, Sally or Suzy from Canada, although I'm certain they're really, really nice.

I have a Prime Minister, not a President. I speak English and French, not American, and I pronounce it 'about,' not 'a boot.'

I can proudly sew my country's flag on my back pack. I believe in peacekeeping, not policing; diversity, not assimilation; and that the beaver is a truly proud and noble animal.

A toque is a hat, a chesterfield is a couch, and it is pronounced zed; not zee - zed!

Canada is the second largest land mass! The first nation of hockey! And the best part of North America!

My name is Joe! And I am Canadian!

...Thank you."

So there you go, everyone! No matter who we are or what our backgrounds, there is something we are and something we are not. We are Canadians! We are Albertans. And it can be said, "We are Elk Pointians." I am not too sure we have a poem or a song about us but I am sure we agree, we live here because we like it here.

Robert Louis Stevenson said: The best things are nearest... breath in your nostrils, light in your eyes, flowers at your feet, duties at your hand, the path of Right just before you. Ten do not grasp at the stars, but do life's plain, common work as it comes, certain that daily duties and daily bread are the sweetest things in life."

Tiered beds with monkshood, yarrow, daisies, daylilies, snapdragons and sedum make an eye-catching asset of potentially difficult terrain in the Boothman yard. The silvery whorls of sedum continue into beds flanking the front of the house. To the south spreads a wide border featuring numerous varieties of lilies, as well as peonies, waving clumps of ribbon grass and Maltese cross. Sylvia pointed out a number of plants which have been pruned by visiting deer, and said she also had a recent visit from a bear who attempted to invite himself to supper.

The tour continued to the home of Susan and Joe MacKinnon, who have created a deep and flourishing pond, abloom with pink and yellow water lilies. "It wasn't intended to be this big," Susan commented, noting that it had all been dug by hand. Nearby, a curving shale path leads through a charming bed banked with ajuga, sedum, variegated spurge and liatris, which Susan said is "still a work in progress." Her attempt at a bog garden has not been successful, she says. "It's drowning from all the rain."

The final stop of the evening was a brief visit to Ruth and Ed Vogel's yard, where a lilies and perennials bloomed vigorously against a background of lilacs, with whimsical birdhouses, a willow wheelbarrow and other unique touches add to the overall effect.

The Further Ed Garden Club meets monthly to share ideas and make plans for bigger and better floral displays, as well as sharing plants at their annual exchange. New members are always welcome to join this hardy band of green thumbs, whose goal is to make their gardens rank among the best in the area.

Allied Arts

The society also has a grant committee hard at work, "and hopefully there will be a positive response to our applications," Conrad says. "We're definitely moving ahead, all that's holding us back is money."

Support for the project is coming from all directions, Conrad notes.

MLA Ray Danyluk "is very supportive, and we have representatives from the Town of Elk Point and County of St. Paul, who are also very supportive." Added to that, "we have a very active and determined board, who are full of ideas. Our meetings are very good, and we have a good representation from the community, including all the user groups, the Elks Lodge and the Pioneer Circle."

"We don't want to compete with their facilities," Conrad hastens to add. "We want to complement them and enhance the town. We hope to develop a facility that will offer space for activities that are not currently available."

Last week's meeting was "exciting," Conrad says. "We got out our measuring tapes and decided where things will go."

Down the Garden Path...

Beautiful vistas await those who venture into area gardens. What better way to enjoy summer?

Windup at Forts for SRP

By ROSEANN MAGDIAR
Elk Point Public Library

The end of summer is near and that means that the Elk Point Public Library Summer Reading Program will be ending for the year as well.

This summer we decided to do things a little differently and invite the friends and families of those registered in the program to join us for our farewell. The farewell party will be taking place on Thursday, August 18 at 2:00 p.m. We will be meeting at the library to collect the fees and then driving out to Fort George and Buckingham House.

Out at the Forts, the interpreters have a great afternoon planned for us. The Golden Loaf Bakery is donating some baked treats for our party.

During this party we will present the Summer Reading Program participants with their reading certificates. Also we will be doing the draw for the grand prize which was donated in part by Video Point and TAGS. There will be pinatas will prizes for everyone, games for everyone to participate in, and refreshments to enjoy.

If you plan to attend, please RSVP to the Roseann at the library at 724-3737 by August 9. We need to let the staff at Fort George and Buckingham House know how many people will be attending this event.

What would we give your hand to clasp,
Your patient face to see,
To hear your voice, to see your smile,
As in the days that used to be.
But some sweet day we'll meet again
Beyond the toil and strife,
And clasp each other's hand once more
In Heaven, that happy life.

Forever remembered and deeply missed by your family.

Congratulations to a "Special" gal Lana Wruth

Camp time for 4-H members

By DARREN TYMOFICHUK

Elk Point 4-H Multi Club

Even though the 4-H year is over, some of our members are going to be part of many different 4-H camps.

The Regional 4-H camps are held at Moose Lake and the Provincial camps, LTCS and PDP will be held at the 4-H Centre at Battle Lake. There is also the Regional 4-H Horse Camp coming soon.

The members attending these camps are sure to have a great time. Activities like archery, canoeing, swimming, ice cream sculpting and watermelon carving are just a few to mention.

We hope everyone has a fun summer!
